Back End Development

Server awaits connection from instance of app

App sends user's location and destination with request for best path

This is the point where application could make other requests i.e. commons menu, etc.

Access database for all relevant points between user and destination

SQL

Fill out data structure with pulled data

Algorithmically determine best path between starting and ending point

Send best path back to app for display